L-3 ETI JOINS THE SATELLITE INDUSTRY ASSOCIATION

Washington, D.C., November 15, 2016 – The Satellite Industry Association (SIA) today announced that L-3 Electron Technologies, Inc. (L-3 ETI) has become SIA’s newest member. L-3 ETI is a leading provider of high-reliability products for space and defense customers. The company’s primary business area includes the manufacture of traveling wave tubes, electronic power conditioners, traveling wave tube amplifiers and electric propulsion systems for space and military applications.

SIA is a full-service trade association that represents commercial satellite companies as the unified voice of the U.S. satellite industry on policy, regulatory and legislative issues affecting the satellite business.

“SIA is very pleased to welcome L-3 ETI to the Association,” said Tom Stroup, SIA’s President. “As a leading provider of satellite ion propulsion systems and RF signal amplifiers for communications satellites, the company is an ideal member of SIA. The addition of L-3 ETI also further augments the Association’s membership of innovative satellite and technology leaders.”

L-3 Electron Technologies, Inc. (L-3 ETI) is part of the Space & Power sector of L-3’s Communication Systems business segment. The company is known for its top-performing traveling wave tubes, electronic power conditioners and fully integrated traveling wave tube amplifiers, and has broadened its capabilities to include space-qualified state-of-the-art Xenon Ion Electric Thrusters and power processing units.
